Bimetallism Abroad It would seem that the question of metallism will force its way to the front, let its enemies do what they may to keep it in the rear. The statement on this subject cabled from London, and published in the Disparce, was highly interesting. Our readers already know Mr. FREWEN, one of the ablest of the statesmen of England, as an earnest advocate of bimetallism. The fact cabled from London mention above was that the success of the British bimetallists engaged in promoting the cause of the free coinage of silver had so encouraged the committee of the Bimetallic League that that committee had determined to force a debate on the subect in Parliament. The many converts to the cause of bimetallism seem to the committee to justify such a movement. The measure championed by that committee seems to have friends in all parties in the House of Commons. The parliamentary secretaries of the Bimetallic League one of them a Radical and another Conservative; and Sir M. W. RIDLEY, who is said to have a potent though quiet influence in the House of Commons, has joined the Bimetallic League. There is no wisdom in arguing against facts. When we know that the entire annual production of gold in the world is not a dollar each for the people of the United States alone, and that the effort of the mono metallists is to have all the property in the world measured by gold, we can understand the growing demand in England for the free coinage of silver. We do not mean to argue just now that the Democrats in Congress ought to press the free-coinage question, nor that the Chicago convention ought to put a cilver plank into the Democratic national platform, but merely desire to post our readers as to the progress of bimetallism outside of this country and to remind them that we in the United States must ourselves in a position to join hands at the proper time with the bimetallists of Europe, and so must take care that in postponing the consideration of the silver uestion for a year we do not postpone it

It is by no means certain that the United States Government could, by its own legislation, keep silver on an equality with gold by authorizing the free coinage of the former metal. What has been done the former metal. What has been done the former metal in the former m heretofore, however, proves almost beyond question that if Great Britain, Germany, and France were to unite in that measure silver bullion would thenceforth stand upon an equality with gold bullion, and the world would ere long be blessed with a universal currency. To deny this proposition and maintain that gold would remain superior to silver, even if the great commercial nations of the world were all to adopt the policy of the free coinage of silver, is to contend that silver is a lawless metal, and that if all those nations were to demonstize gold and fully monetize silver the former metal would nevertheless dominate the latter. We believe in all that the economists teach on this subject when their teachings are duly qualified; but we do not believe that even gold could stand up against a world n arms against it.

A Few Machine Democrats. Commenting upon an editorial which recently appeared in a Virginia Demo-pratic paper, the Lynchburg News says: "It is a pretty state of affairs when men like Sohn S. Barbour and John W. Daniel, P. W. Mc-Kinney, and J. Hoge Tyler, Lester, Lawson, and Epps, and Meredith. and Edmunds, and newspapers like the Disparce, the Landmark, the Index Appeal, and others must be denounced as "ward-heelers" and "place-seekers" and "cheats" simply because they exercise their right to oppose themselves to one man, who is no better than some other men, and espouse the cause of another distinguished Democrat! Was ever the like heard of before?"

A country boy was once asked what he intended to do when he became a man. He replied that he intended to do like his father-sit upon a stump and see the others work. That little fellow, if now living, must be one of the men who talk about "machine Democrats." These machine Democrats are the men who do all the work of the Democratic party whilst the anti-machine Democrats sit upon a stump and look at them, and finally pocket the

Sewish Congregations in the United States.

The work of gathering the statistics of the Jawish congregations of the United States for the eleventh census was com-Hebrew, and Census Bulletin No. 1591, just issued, gives the result of his labors.

There are now in this country 583 con-regations of Orthodox and Reformed gregations of Orthodox and Reformed Jews, with 130,436 communicants. It should be noted, however, that in Jewish congregations the head of a family only is gounted. "The members of the family are represented by one person. The number given as communicants, therefore, does not indicate the number of members of a synagogue." Members of families may, on attaining their majority, rent a pew and "be counted as a member of a hynagogue or temple, but they seldom do nutil they have a household of their

The total value of the synagogue property is $9,754,275, indicating an increase in ten years of $3,549,695. "In the same vanced from 50,000 to 130,425. Much of this extraordinary increase is due, of course, to a large immigration."

thought in the Jewish religion, commonly designated "the Orthodox" and "the Re-formed." The attempt is made by Mr. Cowen to tabulate the statistics in accordance with this classification, though it is difficult in some cases to know how to draw

Under the heading of orthodox congregations are embraced those which "adbere to the ancient rites and ceremonias, ob-serving the Bible as expounded and expanded by the prophets and rabbis. The orthodox Jews accept the Schulchan Aruch as authoritative in all its requirements." This is a codification made by Rabbi Joseph Kano in the middle of the sixteenth century of the laws and cerem nies expounded by the rabbis of the Talmud and handed down from generation to generation by tradition. It "provides for the minutest details of Jewish life, and those who accept it consider it as binding as the law of Moszs itself."

The number of these organizations is $16; church edifices, 122; seating capacity, 46,837; halls, etc., 193; seating capacity, 24,847; value of church property, $2,862,-050; communicants or members, 57,597.

Under the classification of the Reform ed Jewish Congregations are included all Jewish congregations "which do not re-cognize as absolute the authority of the Schulchan Aruch. In some cases the departure from orthodoxy is slight, as in worshipping with the bat off, the mingling of the sexes in the synagogue or temple and the introduction of the organ and the female choir." The number of these organizations is 217; church edifices, 179; seating capacity, 92,397; halls, etc., 38; seating capacity, 3,639; value of church property, $6,956,-225; communicants or members, 72,339.

The cool assumption of "P." in the following note is that there is a party machine distinct from the Democratic party itself, and that the anti-machine Demoerats have the right to bolt, but the ma chine Democrats must, or at any rate will, always support the regular nominees.

We do not play any such game. We do not admit that there are any better Demo-crats than those who believe "that he serves his country best who serves his party best." We do not claim the right to bult after we have tried to get our favorite nominated. The machine Democrats do all the work of the Democratic party. The others too often come in for the best offices. We fear that "P." never admits that his brother Democrats ere anything but machine Democrats if they disagree with him as to men or measures. To the Editor of the Dispatch:

You seem this morning to endorse the sentient that it is the duty of the rank and file of the Democratic party to give always an "unquali-fied and unwavering support to the nominees of the party." If the action of the organized machinery of the party must always be sustained, then it follows that the machine and not the people elect the officers of government. For if we must never rebel, then there will be no fear of rebellion, and the ma-chine is absolutely free to have its own will without the slightest regard to the will of th people. Why should the machine have any regard to the people's will when its will must always receive the unqualified and unwavering support of the people? Is this your Democra-cy? It is not mine. When the machine, in-stead of collecting and giving effective expression of the popular will, suppressed or misrepresents the public will, then the time has come to smarh the machine and devise new safeguards. "Unqualified and unwavering" submission to the machine dislodges the people from power and substitutes an irresponsible and odious oligarchy. To this complexion have we

The threat of rebellion, and, if that is not efhave a little taste of sound doctrine March 18, 1892.

The political sceptre which General Ma-HONE once wielded has long since slipped from his grasp, but he "bobs up serenely every presidential year. Now we hear of him in Washington talking about a Virginia Republican convention to elect delegates to Minneapolis. Well, they will have to be Harrison delegates, because the President will really have no opposition for the nomination, and if the little General can find it in his heart to support him it will show that he has learned to return good for evil.

In these times Manone is powerless in both State and national polities, and he is no longer an object of interest, or curiosity even, at the national capital.

Go from home to get the news. As the Virginia Democratic State Committee will meet here to-morrow the following Virginia news is timely. It comes from the west:

"Mr. Hill has as his supporters the two United States senators, a majority of the congressmen, more than half of the members of the Legislature, and nearly all the politicians. The press is largely favorable to Cleveland."

And so are the people, says the same cor-

Mr. Mr. s was on yesterday elected to the Senate. This is better than being Speaker, and he ought to be thankful to the men who preferred Caise to him.
We congratulate Mr. Mills on his promotion, and wish that he may long serve the Lone-Star State in the Senate.

Congressman Erzs, of Virginia, made a speech in the House yesterday on the silver question, and our dispatches say that he acquitted himself handsomely. We expected this of him. He is a useful member and a thorough-going Democrat.

Richmond Terminal Affairs.

President Oakman said on Monday, says the New York Times, that neither the Richmond Terminal Company nor the Richmond and Daaville Company would intervene in the receivership proceedings against the Georgia Central. President Alexander, of the last-named road, has been informed that when the receivership suit is settled the officers of the Georgia Central will be permitted to operate the road in their own way. The Richmond Terminal people own a majority of the stock of the Georgia Central, which is leased in persecutify to the Georgia Pacific Railway Company, which in its turn is leased to the Richmond and Danville. When the Richmond and Danville Company managed the Georgia Central it put into that property considerable money, which now remains as an unsettled account.

which now remains as an unsetted account.

The Richmond Terminal reorganization plan is developing slowly. Several lots of securities have been deposited with the Olcott committee to be exchanged for new ones. As soon as a sufficient amount of these old securities have been turned in the Stock Exchange will be asked to list the committee's certificates, thereby making them good collateral.
